One Hundred Eighteenth Commencement
May Eighteenth, Nineteen Hundred Seventy-Nine
Eight-Thirty Friday Morning
America

1
My country, 'tis of thee
Sweet land of liberty
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrim's pride,
From every mountain-side
Let freedom ring.

4
Our Father's God to Thee
Author of liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright,
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King.

The Alma Mater

1
Dear Alma Mater,
Thy name is sweet to me.
Our hearts are all for thee,
Fair Washington.
Thy halls shall honored be
Throughout this great country
For all eternity,
Our Washington.

2
Those days of youth which
All of us spent with thee
Form a dear history,
Fair Washington.
Could they renewed be,
We'd live our days with thee
For all eternity,
Our Washington
A Note on the Commencement Ceremony

Whether Paris or Bologna is the first university will probably never be known with certainty. Both date to about 1100, and within a century produced different forms of corporate organization. What we can say, however, is that Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern developed at the University of Paris after a long period of internal discussion among the authorities there.

Paris early attracted thousands of young men in their teens eager for education, but eager too for a good time, most of them being away from home for the first time. Their discipline, and indeed their entire education, fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who, like every other bishop, was responsible for local educational matters. In his attempt to perform his office, the Bishop, therefore, attempted to regulate student conduct and claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting as well. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers attached to the cathedral school and also to the various monasteries scattered throughout what was becoming the student (or Latin) quarter. The teachers, like other experts, or masters, of the day, claimed to be the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to approve or disapprove of a student’s work, and the right to grant the degree—usually the right to teach anywhere in western Europe.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise which was reached between the Bishop who was attempting to retain his traditional rights and honors, and the teaching masters who were demanding normal rights of guild control. We cannot say precisely how the agreement was reached, but by 1200 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop for the degree. The ceremony you will witness this morning is the successor, some 750 years later, to the medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its ancient role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present qualified candidates to the Board whose members, sitting with its executive officer, the Chancellor, award the degree. Today the Chancellor and Board act, as did the medieval Bishop, as the final voice in local educational matters, admitting the new bachelors to the privileges of their new “estate” or condition.
A Note on Academic Dress

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates indicates the degree held, the subject in which it is held, and the institution granting it. Gowns are of three kinds: the Bachelor's, with full, pointed sleeves, hanging open; the Master's, with flowing sleeves which hang below the opening at the wrist; the Doctor's, with very full sleeves gathered at the wrist. The gowns are black, although occasionally trimmed with colored velvet; the hoods, on the other hand, are of many colors. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the institution granting the degree: e.g., the hood of Washington University is lined with red and green. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the faculty or major department:

White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
Orange—Engineering
Lilac—Dentistry
Drab—Business
Dark Blue—Philosophy
Brown—Fine Arts, Architecture, Interior Design
Golden Yellow—Science
Purple—Law
Green—Medicine
Pink—Music
Citron—Social Work
Light Blue—Education

Gold tassels and black tassels, when worn, indicate degree rather than faculty or major department. Thus gold indicates the Ph.D. degree and black indicates the Master's degree.

Academic dress markedly different from the above description indicates a degree from a foreign university.

HONORARY DEGREES

DOCTOR OF FINE ARTS

Alwin Nikolais, revolutionary choreographer and master teacher, became a serious student of the dance in 1937. He studied at the Bennington School of Dance with the great American modern dance pioneers—Martha Graham, Hanya Holm, Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman. After service in the United States Army, he studied with and became the assistant of Hanya Holm in New York City. Mr. Nikolais became director of the Henry Street Playhouse in 1948. It was there that he established his concept of decentralization as a major emphasis of dance technique and creativity. On this basis he also began his revolutionary concept of multimedia theatre and established the Nikolais Dance Theatre. Today, the Nikolais Dance Theatre performs throughout the world and frequently on television. Mr. Nikolais has received many honors, including two John Simon Guggenheim Fellowships, the Dance Magazine award, the Grand Prix Paris International Festival de Dance, an Emmy award, various critics' committees awards, and ten choreographic commissions from the National Endowment for the Arts. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Germaine Bree, French-born educator and now a distinguished citizen of this country, is Kenan Professor of the Humanities at Wake Forest University. She was decorated with the Bronze Star Medal by the United States Army for her service with the French Army during World War II. In 1952, she received the Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur for professional accomplishments. Professor Brée graduated from the University of Paris and then studied at Bryn Mawr College, where she later taught for sixteen years. Subsequently, she was chairman of the department of French for a year and, from 1954 to 1960, head of the department of Romance languages at New York University. Professor Brée was Vilas Professor, Institute for Research in the Humanities, at the University of Wisconsin from 1960 to 1973, when she accepted her present position. She has also taught as a Fulbright Professor at King's College (University of London), the University of Southern Australia, and the American University in Cairo. Well known for her many publications, she is a member of numerous professional organizations, including the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Leigh Gerdine, music educator and college administrator, is president of Webster College. Previously, he was Blewett Professor of Music and chairman of the department of music at Washington University from 1950 to 1970. He was awarded a distinguished faculty citation from Washington University in 1965. A musician himself, he studied piano with Louis Kentner in London. Annotator of the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra's program notes for seventeen years, he was also its part-time acting manager from 1965 to 1967. Dr. Gerdine is a member of the boards of directors of the Arts and Education Council of Greater Saint Louis, the Opera Theatre of Saint Louis, and the Saint Louis Symphony Society. He earned the Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of North Dakota in 1938, the Bachelor of Music degree as a Rhodes Scholar from Oxford University in 1940 (later pursuing postdoctoral studies there), and the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Iowa in 1941. During World War II, he received numerous military decorations including the Croix de Guerre from France.
ROY WILKINS, advocate of human rights and champion of freedom and social justice, is executive director emeritus of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). Born in Saint Louis, he grew up in Saint Paul, Minnesota. After earning the Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Minnesota in 1923, he went to work for the Kansas City Call, a weekly newspaper, becoming its managing editor during his eight years on its staff. Since the early thirties, Mr. Wilkins has dedicated his life to the service of his people as a leader of the NAACP. He has served as assistant secretary from 1931 to 1949; administrator, 1950 through April 1955; executive secretary from that date to 1964; and executive director, 1965 to 1977, when he accepted his present post. From 1934 to 1949, Mr. Wilkins was also editor of Crisis, the NAACP’s official publication. At the time of his retirement from active leadership of the NAACP, he also resigned as chairman of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights (LCCR), a position he had held since it was established in 1949. Mr. Wilkins is the recipient of many honors and awards, including the Medal of Freedom and the Joseph Prize for Human Rights.

HAROLD EUGENE EDGERTON, internationally renowned for his scientific achievements in the related fields of stroboscopy and ultra-high-speed photography, is Institute Professor Emeritus in the department of electrical engineering and computer science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His pioneering research led to the development of the electronic speed flash and the perfection of stroboscopic lights which enable cameras to record movements too fast for the human eye to perceive. Also a designer of underwater photographic equipment, he is consultant to deep-sea explorer Captain Jacques-Yves Cousteau. His recent research on the uses of sonar in archaeology and geology aided in the discovery of the long-lost Civil War ship, the U.S.S. Monitor. Professor Edgerton is the recipient of the medal of the Royal Photographic Society in London, the Potts Medal from the Franklin Institute, and the United States Medal of Freedom. He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Nebraska, and earned the Master of Science and Doctor of Science degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
SAMUEL MILTON NABRIT, scientist, educator, and administrator, is executive director of the Southern Fellowships Fund and the National Fellowships Fund, both operating agencies of the Council of Southern Universities. For twenty-three years beginning in 1932, he was professor of biology and chairman of the department of biology at Atlanta University. Dr. Nabrit was dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences from 1947 to 1955. During the next decade, he served as the second president of Texas Southern University. While there, he was honored with appointments by two Presidents of the United States of America. President Dwight D. Eisenhower named him to the National Science Board; President Lyndon B. Johnson invited him to serve on the Atomic Energy Commission. He left the University in 1966 to join the Commission. The following year, he began administering the Funds while serving on the boards of directors of numerous educational institutions and as a member of important governmental organizations. Dr. Nabrit received the Bachelor of Science degree from Morehouse College, and the Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from Brown University.

DANIEL NATHANS, scientist and educator, was one of three winners of the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine last year. He was honored for his research which proved that by using "site-specific restriction enzymes," DNA, the complex genetic material of cells, can be chemically cleaved into small, specific fragments, which are useful. Dr. Nathans earned the Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Delaware in 1950, and received the medical degree from Washington University School of Medicine four years later. He completed his internship and residency at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City. Dr. Nathans also did postdoctoral work at the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, and at Rockefeller University in New York City. Affiliated with Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine since 1962, he is now professor of microbiology and director of its department of microbiology. Dr. Nathans spent 1969 in Israel at the Weizmann Institute of Science. He received the Selman Waksman Award in Microbiology in 1967, and the National Academy of Sciences United States Steel Foundation Award in Molecular Biology in 1976. Dr. Nathans has published more than seventy-five scientific papers, and has been a member of the editorial board of the Journal of Molecular Biology since 1972.
