One Hundred Twenty-Third Commencement
May Eighteenth
Nineteen Hundred Eighty-Four
Eight-Thirty Friday Morning
A Brief History of Washington University

Founded in 1853, the University was located in downtown St. Louis for its first fifty years. Ground for a new site on the edge of the city was purchased in 1894 and in 1900 construction was begun on the first five buildings of a plan based upon the medieval courtyards of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges.

These first ivy covered Gothic buildings with their red granite walls, arches and gargoyles formed the quadrangle. Upon completion, these original buildings were leased to the 1904 World's Fair. The lease money made it possible to begin construction of additional buildings and all were used for the Fair before the University moved in. The athletic stadium, Francis Field, was built to accommodate the 1904 Olympic games, presented in conjunction with the Fair.

Over the years, the original 'Academic Gothic' architecture has been succeeded by a variety of eclectic styles, but certain key principles of the original plan were retained. Plazas and courtyards still reflect the original theme.

A Note on the Commencement Ceremony

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1100.

In the early days of the University of Paris the discipline of the students, and indeed their entire education fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. In an attempt to perform his office, the Bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers who felt they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to grant the degree.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the Bishop and the teaching masters. By 1200 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop who conferred the degree. The ceremony you will witness this morning is the successor to this medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present the qualified candidates to the Chancellor, acting as executive officer of the Board. Today the Chancellor and the Board act, as did the medieval Bishop when, acting together, they grant accreditation upon the student’s completion of the Faculty’s requirements.
A Note on Academic Dress

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates indicates the degree held, the subject in which it is held, and the institution granting it. Gowns are of three kinds: the Bachelor’s with full, pointed sleeves, hanging open; the Master’s with flowing sleeves which hang below the opening at the wrist; the Doctor’s with very full sleeves gathered at the wrist. The gowns are black, although occasionally trimmed with colored velvet; the hoods, on the other hand, are of many colors. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the institution granting the degree: e.g., the hood of Washington University is lined with red and green. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university:

- White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
- Orange—Engineering
- Lilac—Dentistry
- Silver Beige—Business
- Dark Blue—Philosophy
- Brown—Fine Arts, Architecture, Interior Design
- Golden Yellow—Science
- Purple—Law
- Green—Medicine
- Pink—Music
- Citron—Social Work
- Light Blue—Education

Gold tassels and black tassels, when worn, indicate degree rather than faculty or major department. Thus gold indicates the Ph.D. degree and black indicates the Master’s degree.

Academic dress markedly different from the above description indicates a degree from a foreign university.

Banners

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division is also represented on the University’s Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. They were designed by John R. Howze, Senior Graphic Designer at Washington University. You will note that the side sections of the banners are red and green, the University’s colors, and that the center section, which bears the seal of the University, is the color of the academic division.

DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

JOHN ARTHUR RASSIAS

Professor John Arthur Rassias has appeared on “60 Minutes,” “P.M. Magazine” and “Good Morning America.” He has been interviewed by Johnny Carson, Charles Kurault and David Brinkley. He joined the faculty of Dartmouth College in 1965 as the William R. Kenan Professor in the Humanities and has been chairman of language instruction and director of the study abroad programs at Dartmouth since 1968. When he developed a series of language training programs for the Peace Corps and Dartmouth, a new era was born. His Dartmouth Intensive Language Model has been adopted by institutions across the country, including Washington University, largely through a grant from the EXXON Education Foundation. An $82,520 grant from the Sloan Foundation enabled him to develop a video language laboratory and prototype series of videotapes for instruction in language and literature. He received the Palmes Académiques in 1978 from the French government; during the same year, he was appointed to the (U.S.) President’s Commission on Foreign Language and International Studies and named chairman of the Commission’s Task Force on Foreign Languages. He is publisher and executive editor of The Ram’s Horn, a quarterly published by Dartmouth and The Rassias Foundation. He recently completed 12 videotapes on French language and culture for Twentieth Century Fox-CBS and currently is under contract to Harper & Row, New York, to write texts in German, Spanish, and English as a Second Language. Mr. Rassias earned his Doctorat d’Université from L’Université de Dijon in 1952 and a Certificate from the Institut de Phonétique in Paris in 1960.

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

DAISY LEE BATES

Civil rights advocate Daisy Lee Bates was a leading force in the 1957 struggle to integrate Central High School in Little Rock, Ark. The school was the site of the first confrontation between federal and state governments after the Supreme Court’s 1954 school desegregation decision. Mrs. Bates chronicled the historic event in The Long Shadow of Little Rock, a book published in 1962 with a foreword by Eleanor Roosevelt. In the book, Mrs. Bates tells what it was like to live through those terrible months -- the bombings, the shootings and the fear. As co-publisher of the Arkansas State Press with her husband, the late L.C. Bates, she saw their newspaper bankrupted by the withholding of white advertising, and her home demolished. She also was president of the state conference of the NAACP during that time. In the ensuing years, she worked for the Democratic National Committee and the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) Training Program, helping underprivileged people in Arkansas. She spearheaded the formation of the Mitchellville OEO Self-Help project to aid displaced farm workers in a small community 81 miles southeast of Little Rock. The federally-funded project has been so successful, it has been imitated nationally. Her most recent victory has been resurrecting the Arkansas State Press. Starting where she left off, she published issue number 26 on April 11, 1984.
DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

BOB HOPE

Bob Hope, the master entertainer who has become a legend in his lifetime, is a native of England, a national monument in the United States and a citizen of the world. Critics and fans have hailed him as “Mr. Entertainment,” “Mr. Humanitarian” and the “King of Comedy.” He has received over 1,000 awards and citations for his humanitarian and professional efforts and 48 honorary doctorate degrees, including one from St. Louis University in 1979. His most recent degree was awarded this month by The Citadel in Charleston, S.C. In March, Hope spent three days as a professor of comedy at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. At SMU’s Bob Hope Theater, he conducted seminars on live and film comedy, and the changes in comedy in the past 50 years. He is scheduled to return to SMU in the fall for another workshop. Born Leslie Townes Hope on May 29, 1903, in Eltham, England, Hope emigrated with his family four years later to Cleveland, Ohio. Since entering show business, he has performed in hundreds of top-rated television specials and starred in over 50 motion pictures. He has been featured on more than 1,000 radio shows and performed in vaudeville and Broadway theater. He also has written eight books. Since 1941, Hope has entertained servicemen at bases and hospitals worldwide. His annual USO Christmas shows are an American tradition. President John F. Kennedy presented him a Congressional Gold Medal, calling him “America’s most prized ambassador of goodwill throughout the world.”

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

LEON RICHTER STRAUSS

Leon Richter Strauss’ name is synonymous in St. Louis with renovation. A native son, he attended the University City public schools and graduated from Washington University in 1949 with a bachelor of science degree in architectural engineering. Immediately after graduation, he was employed by the State of Israel in the Town Planning Department in Jerusalem to design villages for new immigrants. The following year, he returned to St. Louis and joined Millstone Construction, Inc; he was named vice president in 1959. In 1972, he left Millstone to found the Pantheon Corporation. Mr. Strauss has led Pantheon through a wide variety of development projects in the City of St. Louis, most notably: DeBaliviere Place, Lafayette Towne and Columbus Square. These projects all represent a rebirth of seriously deteriorated and abandoned sections of the city. A joint project with his wife, Mary—the renovation of the “Fabulous Fox Theatre” in midtown St. Louis—has brought the most fame to the Strauss name. The theatre has become an entertainment mecca for the metropolitan area, drawing over one million people into its palatial midst during its first year of operation (1982-83). In return for all of his efforts, Strauss has received a host of accolades: 10 awards, in fact, in the past four years, including the St. Louis Award in 1980, the American Jewish Committee’s Human Relations Award in 1981, and the Washington University School of Engineering and Applied Science Alumni Achievement Award in 1983.
DOCTOR OF LAWS

JOHN WELLER HANLEY

John Weller Hanley is the recently retired chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Monsanto Company, a giant, multi-national chemical company. Monsanto hired him in 1972 for his professional management skills and, during his 12-year tenure, he more than doubled the company's earnings and led its diversification into biotechnology. Hanley is a strong proponent of corporate/social responsibility. Under his leadership, Monsanto awarded a $25-million contract to Washington University in 1982 for cooperative biomedical research. It was a pioneering agreement in U.S. corporate/university relations. As the first non-native St. Louisan to join Civic Progress, Inc., the organization of top area executives, he often played a strong devil's advocate role. He was especially interested in fostering cooperation between the City of St. Louis and St. Louis County. A trustee of Washington University from 1974 to 1984, Hanley's other former affiliations include: chairman of the National Advisory Board of the Salvation Army and chairman of the Board of Governors of the United Way of America. Hanley holds a bachelor of science degree in metallurgical engineering from Pennsylvania State University and received his master of business administration in 1947 from Harvard Business School. He joined the Procter & Gamble Company in 1947 as a field sales manager and, by 1970, was executive vice president. He joined Monsanto Company in 1972 as president and chief executive officer. Since his retirement, he and his wife, Mary Jane, have been active establishing the Hanley-Hazelden Center for the treatment of chemical dependency in West Palm Beach, Florida.

DOCTOR OF LETTERS

CARLOS FUENTES

Carlos Fuentes returned this spring to Washington University as visiting professor of literature and history after serving in April 1983 as Lewin Lecturer in the Humanities. The Mexican author, critic and diplomat recently accepted an appointment at Harvard University as a visiting professor to begin in the fall. Since 1977, he has spent one semester each year in residence at a university in the United States. The son of a career diplomat, Fuentes grew up in several Western capitals. He earned a law degree at the National University of Mexico in Mexico City and completed postgraduate work in Geneva, Switzerland, at the Institut des Hautes Etudes Internationales. He served in several Mexican diplomatic posts during the 1950s, the last, as director of International Cultural Relations for the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Mexico City from 1956 to 1959. An independent leftist, Fuentes has been critical of both the Soviet Union's invasion of Czechoslovakia and U.S. military involvement in Vietnam. His defense of Fidel Castro's Cuba led to his being denied a visa to enter the United States on a number of occasions in the 1960s. The incident caused a storm of protest from many Americans. By the time Mr. Fuentes was named Mexican Ambassador to France (1974 to 1977), he was well established as a writer. His second novel, The Death of Artemio Cruz, published in 1964, established his international reputation as an author. He recently completed his 11th novel, Christopher Unborn —his first comic novel. He also has written plays and movie scripts, and collaborated with Spanish film director Luis Bunuel.
DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

WESLEY ALLISON CLARK

Wesley Allison Clark is a New York-based consultant with Sutherland, Sproull and Associates, a computer design and technology consulting firm. His current project is the computer transcription of Chinese characters. He has been on the leading edge of computer technology since the early 1950s, when he joined the Whirlwind Computer Project of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. By 1959, he had turned his attention to small computers, designing the L-1, which has been called the first minicomputer. In the early 1960s, he designed the Laboratory Instrument Computer (LINC), which changed the course of biomedical computing and is said to be the first personal computer. His objective was to make a computer that would be a laboratory instrument for a single scientific investigator. "One scientist, one machine," was one of his pet expressions. LINC was a forerunner of today's microprocessors and personal computers. He recently was honored at the Digital Equipment Corporation Museum for the design of the LINC, which was identified there as "the first interactive personal computer." From 1964 to 1972, Clark was a research professor of computer science at Washington University, joining a number of colleagues from MIT in establishing what later became the University's Computer Systems Laboratory. In 1981, he received the Eckert-Mauchly Award for Computer Architecture from the Association for Computing Machinery - Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (ACM-IEEE) and is a charter recipient of the IEEE Computer Pioneer Award. He earned a bachelor of arts degree in physics in 1947 from the University of California at Berkeley.

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

ELI ROBINS

Eli Robins, M.D., Wallace Renard Professor of Psychiatry in the Washington University School of Medicine since 1966, has helped raise the field of psychiatry to a scientific level, both in clinical practice and research. He has helped illuminate such diseases as hysteria and depression and also is noted for his basic biochemical research in chemistry of the brain. In 1981, he authored a book titled The Final Months: A Study of the Lives of 134 Persons Who Committed Suicide, published by Oxford University Press. His recent honors include: the St. Louis Medical Society's Award of Merit in 1978; the American Psychiatric Association's Foundations' Fund Prize for Research in Psychiatry in 1982; and the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill's Distinguished Service Award in 1983. Dr. Robins earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1940 from Rice University in Houston, and a doctor of medicine in 1943 from Harvard Medical School. He joined the Washington University School of Medicine faculty in 1951, was elevated to professor of psychiatry in 1958 and served as head of the Department of Psychiatry from 1963 to 1975. He has been a psychiatrist with Barnes, Jewish and Children's hospitals since 1975, an attending psychiatrist with St. Louis City Hospital since 1951 and a visiting psychiatrist with St. Louis State Hospital since 1958.
