WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

One Hundred Twenty-Sixth Commencement

May Fifteenth
Nineteen Hundred Eighty-Seven
Eight-Thirty Friday Morning
A Brief History of Washington University

Founded in 1853, the University was located in downtown St. Louis for its first fifty years. Ground for a new site on the edge of the city was purchased in 1894 and in 1900 construction was begun on the first five buildings of a plan based upon the medieval courtyards of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges.

These first ivy covered Gothic buildings with their red granite walls, arches and gargoyles formed the quadrangle. Upon completion, these original buildings were leased to the 1904 World's Fair. The lease money made it possible to begin construction of additional buildings and all were used for the Fair before the University moved in. The athletic stadium, Francis Field, was built to accommodate the 1904 Olympic games, presented in conjunction with the Fair.

Over the years, the original “Academic Gothic” architecture has been succeeded by a variety of eclectic styles, but certain key principles of the original plan were retained. Plazas and courtyards still reflect the original theme.

A Note on the Commencement Ceremony

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1100.

In the early days of the University of Paris the discipline of the students, and indeed their entire education fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. In an attempt to perform his office, the Bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers who felt they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to grant the degree.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the Bishop and the teaching masters. By 1200 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop who conferred the degree. The ceremony you will witness this morning is the successor to this medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present the qualified candidates to the Chancellor, acting as executive officer of the Board. Today the Chancellor and the Board act, as did the medieval Bishop when, acting together, they grant accreditation upon the student’s completion of the Faculty’s requirements.
A Note on Academic Dress

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates indicates the degree held, the subject in which it is held, and the institution granting it. Gowns are of three kinds: the Bachelor's with full, pointed sleeves, hanging open; the Master's with flowing sleeves which hang below the opening at the wrist; the Doctor's with very full sleeves gathered at the wrist. The gowns are black, although occasionally trimmed with colored velvet. The hoods, on the other hand, are of many colors. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the institution granting the degree: e.g., the hood of Washington University is lined with red and green. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university.

White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
Dark Blue—Philosophy
Golden Yellow—Science
Orange—Engineering
Gray—Technology
Blue Violet—Architecture

Silver Beige—Business
Brown—Fine Arts
Citron—Social Work
Purple—Law
Lilac—Dentistry
Green—Medicine

Academic dress markedly different from the above description indicates a degree from a foreign university.

Banners

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division is also represented on the University's Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. You will note that the side sections of the banners are red and green, the University's colors, and that the center section, which bears the seal of the University, is the color of the academic division.

HONORARY DEGREES

FUMIHIKO MAKI
DOCTOR OF ART AND ARCHITECTURE

Fumihiko Maki is a student of two cultures; his unique architectural spirit is a successful fusion of both. Born in Tokyo, he has studied architecture in both the United States and Japan. Considered one of Japan's leading architects, Maki is a member of the Japan Institute of Architects, as well as an Honorary Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. Maki, who was an assistant professor at the Washington University School of Architecture from 1956-58 and 1960-62, designed the University's Steinberg Hall, which was completed in 1960 and houses the Gallery of Art. While at Washington University, he helped establish the Master's of Architecture and Urban Design program. A professor of architecture at the University of Tokyo since 1979, Maki also has taught at the Harvard University Graduate School of Design and has worked as a designer for Skidmore, Owings and Merrill in New York. In 1965, he established Maki and Associates in Tokyo. Among his major projects in Japan are the Tokyo Municipal Gymnasium, the Toyota Memorial Hall at Nagoya University, the National Aquarium in Okinawa, the Hillside Terrace apartment complex and the Spiral building in Tokyo, the Embassy of Austria and the Royal Danish Embassy in Tokyo, the National Museum of Modern Art in Kyoto and the Fujisawa Municipal Gymnasium, for which Maki won the 1985 Japan Institute of Architects Award. Outside Japan, his designs include the Embassy of Japan in Brasilia, Brazil, and the Sabah Sports Center in Sabah, East Malaysia. His numerous awards include first prize in the United Nations International Invitational Competition for the design of "Low-Cost Housing in Lima, Peru"; a citation from the Progressive Architecture Award Program; and a fellowship from the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts. Maki emphasizes the use of new technology and rational design in his work, while seeking to harmonize and integrate new and old architecture. "The city is a fact and architecture is its cultural expression," says Maki. "The task for architects is to respond to messages from the culture." His favorite building materials are of the modern age — metal, glass and poured concrete. Maki received his bachelor's of architecture degree from the University of Tokyo in 1952. He earned a master's of architecture from the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, in 1953, and a master's of architecture from the Graduate School of Design at Harvard University in 1954.

GEORGE HOWARD CAPPs
DOCTOR OF LAWS

Described by many as a "dynamo," George H. Capps is one of St. Louis' most influential and productive business and civic leaders. The president since 1961 of Volkswagen Mid-America Inc., the Volkswagen distributorship for four Midwest states, Capps also is president of Capitol Coal & Coke Co., a major exporter of coal to Europe and the Far East. The father of seven children who have given him 18 grandchildren, he follows a strict exercise and diet regimen and sleeps only a few hours a night, leaving the rest of the time for business, community and family commitments. A graduate of Washington University and the University's law school, Capps has kept a close and active association with his alma mater. A member of the University's Board of Trustees since 1966, Capps served as chairman of the board from 1980 until 1983, when he was named chairman of the ALLIANCE FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, the $300 million fund-raising program. The on-going campaign, with a December 31, 1987, target date, has exceeded its goal, with gift commitments totaling more than $500 million, the largest amount ever achieved by a national university fund-raising campaign. He also chaired Washington University's development and major gifts committees when the University successfully completed a $120 million fund-raising program in 1976, two years ahead of schedule. For his outstanding service to the University, he has received an alumni citation and the University's prestigious William Greenleaf Eliot Society's "Search" Award. Chancellor William H. Danforth once said of Capps, "A man of mature judgment, he has demonstrated almost unbelievable devotion and dedication to Washington University. No one has worked harder for the institution." A former FBI agent, Navy officer and Eagle Scout, Capps has received other awards for his business and civic leadership. Those honors include the St. Louis Globe-Democrat’s “Man of the Year” Award in 1976 and the St. Louis Variety Club’s “Man of the Year” in 1984. Capps' devotion to the St. Louis community is evidenced by his numerous civic contributions, among which are: past president and campaign chairman of the United Way of Greater St. Louis; former chairman of the United Fund Campaign of Greater St. Louis; and positions on the boards of numerous health, education and youth institutions.

WILLIAM GEORGE HYLAND

DOCTOR OF LAWS

In a 1983 article on William G. Hyland, editor of Foreign Affairs, Time magazine referred to him as “one of the nation’s foremost Sovietologists.” A feature in last November’s Vanity Fair mentioned that Hyland is frequently the person television networks call when they need someone to speak on the Soviet Union. The chairman of Harvard University’s Department of Government, Robert Putnam, says, “It’s hard to think of anybody in the foreign policy establishment who’s smarter than Bill Hyland.” A former national security adviser to Presidents Nixon, Ford and Carter, Hyland, in the spring of 1983, was named editor of Foreign Affairs, the journal of the Council on Foreign Relations. He is the third editor in the journal’s 65-year history. Published five times a year with a circulation of 90,000, the publication plays an important role in shaping U.S. foreign policy debate. Hyland began his career in government in 1954 when he joined the Central Intelligence Agency as an analyst. In 1969, he moved to the National Security Council staff at the White House, working with Henry Kissinger under President Nixon. He served on the Soviet and European affairs staff until 1973, when he became Director of Intelligence at the State Department. He returned to the White House in 1975 as deputy assistant for National Security Affairs for President Ford and later President Carter. In 1977, he joined Georgetown University’s Center for Strategic Studies, where he taught a course and helped Kissinger with the research for his two books of memoirs. He subsequently became a senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in Washington, D.C. In a 1983 article on his new position at Foreign Affairs, Time reported that Hyland played a “key role in negotiating SALT I” and praised him as “a scholarly, literate writer.” Hyland co-authored The Fall of Khrushchev, 1968; and his new book, Mortal Rivals: Superpower Relations From Nixon to Reagan, will be published this June by Random House. A native of Kansas City, Hyland received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Washington University in 1950 and a master's degree in history in 1954 from the University of Kansas City (now University of Missouri-Kansas City).

GURPREET SINGH

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Since returning to his native India after graduating from Washington University’s business school in 1954, Gurpreet Singh has used his business acumen to promote several businesses and to create one of India’s leading electronic companies. After receiving the master of business administration degree, Singh’s first position in India was manager of National Cold Storage and Refrigeration Co. Ltd. in Delhi. He later became a director and is now chairman of the company. In 1964, he founded Continental Device India Ltd., a dominant force in the field of electronic components, consumer electronics and telecommunications. The company was the first to bring frontier-line technology in silicon semiconductors to India. Singh is managing director of several other electronic companies in India. He serves on the board of directors of numerous companies, including Montari Industries Ltd. and the advisory board for Citicorp N.A. He is past president of both the Confederation of Engineering Industry and the Electronic Component Industries Association, and past vice president of the Institution of Electronic and Telecommunication Engineers, where he is a Fellow. He also is past chairman of the northern region of the Engineering Export Promotion Council. His many honors include the president of India’s “Gold Shield for Import Substitution” award in 1973. Listed in Who's Who in the World, Singh was nominated by India’s government to serve on the National Advisory Committee on Electronics. Active in education and research, he has written numerous articles and has been a visiting professor at the Indian Institute of Technology. He serves on the board of governors of several educational institutions, including the Indian Institute of Technology and Indira Gandhi Open University. He is vice president of an educational foundation, established by his family, that supports more than 27 schools in India and operates a girls' school and a vocational training school for orphans. Singh's son, Inderdeep, received a master's degree in engineering and a master of business administration degree from Washington University. His daughter Punita is pursuing a doctorate in communication science at the University.

EUGENE MYRON BRICKER

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE
Dr. Eugene M. Bricker's medical career at Washington University's School of Medicine spans more than 50 years. His colleagues call him the master surgeon. He developed a series of surgical procedures that have aided thousands of cancer patients. From 1938-1975, Dr. Bricker was on the surgical staff of several St. Louis area hospitals, including Barnes and Children's. He was one of the first staff members in 1939 at Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital in Columbia, Missouri, where he held a variety of positions, including chief surgeon, associate director of the surgery department and chief of staff. He also was a senior scientist at the Cancer Research Center in Columbia. The Carbondale, Illinois, native is a graduate of Southern Illinois Teachers College in Carbondale and the Washington University School of Medicine. After graduating from medical school in 1934, he was an intern, assistant resident and resident at Barnes Hospital. In 1938, he was appointed an instructor in the medical school's Department of Surgery and was promoted to assistant professor in 1944 and associate professor in 1946. He was named professor of clinical surgery in 1966 and received his emeritus title in 1975. Dr. Bricker was a member of the Washington University Board of Trustees from 1964-1975, and from 1967-1970 he was the medical school's national chairman for the University's Seventy by Seventy fund-raising campaign. He is a past president of the American Surgical Association, past chairman of the American Board of Surgery, and a former governor of the American College of Surgeons. He has published more than 60 articles and has written numerous books. A former member of the Army Medical Corps, Dr. Bricker is the recipient of several awards, including Washington University's prestigious William Greenleaf Eliot Society's "Search" Award, which is given annually to honor an individual who has enriched the University by his or her interest and support. He received the award in 1973. Dr. Bricker also is the recipient of the Amory Prize Award from the American Academy of Science, and the Ferdinand C. Valentine Medal and Award from the New York Academy of Medicine.

GRACE MURRAY HOPPER

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE
Rear Admiral Grace M. Hopper, known by her colleagues as "Amazing Grace," is a computer pioneer and a driving force behind the development of programming languages. She assisted in programming the first large-scale digital computer, Harvard University's Mark I, and was a prime mover in the development of one of the first computer languages, Cobol. A 1928 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Vassar College, Dr. Hopper received a master's degree in 1930 and a doctorate in 1934, both from Yale University, where she was elected to Sigma Xi. Hopper taught at Vassar in the Department of Mathematics from 1931-1943, rising from an instructor to associate professor. After graduating from the United States Naval Reserve Midshipman's School-W in Northampton, Mass., and being commissioned lieutenant, Hopper was ordered to the Bureau of Ordnance Computation Project at Harvard University, where she helped "tame the monster," Howard Aiken's Mark I computer. She joined the Harvard faculty in 1946 as a research fellow and worked on applications programming for the Mark I, Mark II and Mark III computers for the Navy. In 1949 she joined the Eckert-Mauchly Computer Corp. (now Sperry Rand Corp.) where, during her 22-year tenure, she helped program the historic UNIVAC I, the first large-scale commercial electronic digital computer. She was a member of the Defense Department-sponsored committee that developed the Common Business-Oriented Language (Cobol) and in 1952 published the first of her more than 50 compiler papers on software and programming languages. Retired in 1966 from the Naval Reserve with the rank of commander, Hopper was recalled to active duty in 1967, promoted to captain, commodore and then rear admiral. In August 1986, her tenure as the nation’s oldest active duty officer ended during a farewell ceremony aboard the U.S.S. Constitution. Dr. Hopper has received more than 25 honorary degrees from universities worldwide. Her awards, professional activities and memberships, and bibliography cover more than nine typewritten pages. After four decades of pioneering work and “opportunities I never could have dreamed of,” Hopper feels her greatest contribution has been “all the young people I’ve trained.”

SAMUEL ISAAC WEISSMAN
DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Samuel Isaac Weissman, professor emeritus of chemistry at Washington University, is an internationally respected scientist, an active researcher, and an inspiration to his former students. A pioneer in the field of electron paramagnetic resonance, he discovered how that phenomenon could be used as a method to explain the detailed structure of molecules. His contributions and the resulting developments were considered a major scientific advancement. For his distinguished research achievements, he was elected a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1963, and in 1966, was elected to the National Academy of Sciences, the only member of the chemistry department to achieve these distinctions. Dr. Weissman joined the Washington University faculty in 1946 as an assistant professor of chemistry, became associate professor in 1947, professor in 1955 and professor emeritus in 1980. Prior to coming to the University, he served for four years as a research chemist and group leader with the Manhattan Project, which developed the atomic bomb, in Berkeley, California, and at Los Alamos, New Mexico. He has been praised by colleagues on the Manhattan Project for his pioneer work on the application of nuclear fission to the development of weapons. A native of Indiana, Dr. Weissman received his bachelor’s degree in 1933 and his doctorate in 1938, both from the University of Chicago. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Chicago from 1938 to 1941 and a National Research Council fellow at the University of California in 1941-42. He has served as a Baker Lecturer at Cornell University, which is considered one of the most distinguished lectureships in the country. In 1966, he was honored as an outstanding faculty member at the University’s Founders Day banquet. He was recognized by his peers when he received the Midwest Award by the St. Louis Section of the American Chemical Society. Dr. Weissman is married to Jane Loevinger, who holds the William R. Stuckenberg chair in psychology at Washington University. They have two children who are professors as well.

THE ALMA MATER

Dear Alma Mater, Thy name is sweet to me.
Those days of youth which All of us spent with thee

Our hearts are all for thee Fair Washington.
Form a dear history, Fair Washington.

Thy halls shall honored be Through-out this great country
Could they renewed be, We'd live our days with thee

For all eternity, Our Washington.
For all eternity, Our Washington.
