WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

One Hundred Twenty-Ninth Commencement

May Eighteenth
Nineteen Hundred Ninety
Eight-Thirty Friday Morning
A Brief History of Washington University

Founded in 1853, the University was located in downtown St. Louis for its first fifty years. Ground for a new site on the edge of the city was purchased in 1894 and in 1900 construction was begun on the first five buildings of a plan based upon the medieval courtyards of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges.

These first ivy covered Gothic buildings with their red granite walls, arches and gargoyles formed the quadrangle. Upon completion, these original buildings were leased to the 1904 World’s Fair. The lease money made it possible to begin construction of additional buildings and all were used for the Fair before the University moved in. The athletic stadium, Francis Field, was built to accommodate the 1904 Olympic games, presented in conjunction with the Fair.

Over the years, the original “Academic Gothic” architecture has been succeeded by a variety of eclectic styles, but certain key principles of the original plan were retained. Plazas and courtyards still reflect the original theme.

A Note on the Commencement Ceremony

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1100.

In the early days of the University of Paris the discipline of the students, and indeed their entire education fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. In an attempt to perform his office, the Bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers who felt they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to grant the degree.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the Bishop and the teaching masters. By 1200 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop who conferred the degree. The ceremony you will witness this morning is the successor to this medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present the qualified candidates to the Chancellor, acting as executive officer of the Board. Today the Chancellor and the Board act, as did the medieval Bishop when, acting together, they grant accreditation upon the student’s completion of the Faculty’s requirements.
A Note on Academic Dress

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates indicates the degree held, the subject in which it is held, and the institution granting it. Gowns are of three kinds: the Bachelor's with full, pointed sleeves, hanging open; the Master's with flowing sleeves which hang below the opening at the wrist; the Doctor's with very full sleeves gathered at the wrist. The gowns are black, although occasionally trimmed with colored velvet. The hoods, on the other hand, are of many colors. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the institution granting the degree: e.g., the hood of Washington University is lined with red and green. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university.

White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
Dark Blue—Philosophy
Golden Yellow—Science
Orange—Engineering
Gray—Technology
Blue Violet—Architecture

Silver Beige—Business
Brown—Fine Arts
Citron—Social Work
Purple—Law
Lilac—Dentistry
Green—Medicine

Academic dress markedly different from the above description indicates a degree from a foreign university.

Banners

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division is also represented on the University's Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. You will note that the side sections of the banners are red and green, the University's colors, and that the center section, which bears the seal of the University, is the color of the academic division.

HONORARY DEGREES

ZANE EDISON BARNES

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Zane E. Barnes, retired chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Southwestern Bell Corporation, began his telecommunications career in 1941 as a telephone lineman with Ohio Bell Telephone Company. By 1983, he was leading Southwestern Bell through the enormous task of becoming a stand-alone company after the giant AT&T system was split in what was the largest corporation spinoff in the history of American business. Just three months after the Bell System breakup, Barnes announced a major reorganization of Southwestern Bell. The plan, which made each of the company's market states—Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas—a profit center responsible for its own bottom line and compensation, was a complete success. James F. Haake, the company's then vice president of personnel, applauded Barnes' reorganization plan, saying Barnes had "the quickest and most active, retentive mind of anyone I've ever met in my career." When presenting Barnes with the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's 1981 "Man of the Year" award, publisher G. Duncan Bauman noted not only Barnes' outstanding leadership in business, but also his significant contributions to the St. Louis community, particularly his commitment to the quality of education. Bauman cited Barnes' successful accomplishments as a trustee of Washington University during the crucial early period of the ALLIANCE FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY campaign, which raised over $630 million—at that time, the largest fund-raising effort in the history of American higher education. Barnes co-chaired the effort to raise $21 million to complete the University's Clinical Sciences Research Building on the medical campus, and chaired the ALLIANCE'S Annual Program Executive Committee. "Whatever he does," added Bauman, "he does superbly." Barnes received the University's prestigious William Greenleaf Eliot Society's "Search" award in 1985, given annually to honor an individual who has enriched the University through active interest and support. Among the many civic organizations to which Barnes has actively contributed are Civic Progress Inc.; the Brookings Institution; TARGET, an organization that combats alcohol and drug abuse; the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis; and United Way. His dedication to the community was recognized by the St. Louis Variety Club, which named him "Man of the Year" for 1985. Barnes, a native of Marietta, Ohio, is a graduate and life associate trustee of Marietta College. Despite the many accolades and honors Barnes has received throughout his illustrious career, he does not forget his beginnings as a lineman at Ohio Bell, and admits that he will always be at heart a "high walkin' rusty wire twister."

BERNARD BECKER

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Head of the Department of Ophthalmology at the Washington University School of Medicine for 35 years, Dr. Bernard Becker has established one of the pre-eminent departments and training programs in this country. The chairmen of nine ophthalmology departments in the United States and at least three departments in Europe either completed their residencies or conducted research under Dr. Becker. A graduate of Princeton University and Harvard Medical School, Dr. Becker, now professor and emeritus head of the department, is nationally and internationally known for his research into the causes and control of glaucoma, an eye disease that is one of the leading causes of blindness in the United States. He developed acetazolamide, a drug used to control glaucoma, and pioneered administering the drug to humans. Dr. Henry J. Kaplan, who succeeded Dr. Becker as head of the ophthalmology department, says, "I can think of no individual who better epitomizes the ideal of the teacher, researcher, clinician, and innovator than Bernard Becker. He has touched the lives of many who are among the leaders in ophthalmology, and his contributions to the understanding and treatment of glaucoma assure his place in history as one of the most influential and important figures in ophthalmology in this century." Dr. Becker was appointed professor and head of the ophthalmology department in 1953, becoming one of the youngest department heads ever named at the medical school. In 1967 he established the medical school's Glaucoma Center, a facility that no longer exists but which produced major breakthroughs, including the basic glaucoma tests that are now part of all regular eye examinations. An endowed chair in ophthalmological research was established in his name at the medical school in 1979, the year that marked Dr. Becker's 25th anniversary as department head. Dr. Becker helped establish the National Eye Institute (NEI), a branch of the National Institutes of Health, and greatly influenced the development of research fellowships in ophthalmology by the NEI. He was instrumental in establishing the national Association for Research in Vision and Ophthalmology.
and served for many years as the first editor of the association’s journal, Investigative Ophthalmology. Recognizing the need to expand physicians’ knowledge in the clinical management of glaucoma, Dr. Becker collaborated with his friend Dr. Robert Shaffer in writing one of the most widely used textbooks in ophthalmology, Becker-Shaffer’s Diagnosis and Therapy of the Glaucomas. The book is in its sixth edition.

FRANKIE MUSE FREEMAN

DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Growing up in the South and experiencing the pain of segregation, Frankie Muse Freeman dreamed of becoming a lawyer who could work to eliminate racial injustice. In 1947 her dream came true, and for more than 40 years, she has been instrumental in helping others persevere in the pursuit of their own dreams. Her first civil rights case in 1949 resulted in a court ruling that allowed black students in the St. Louis school system access to courses formerly denied to them. On the heels of that success came another victory before the Missouri Supreme Court in 1955—accessibility for blacks to low-income public housing in St. Louis. Her growing reputation as a major force in the civil rights movement soon reached the White House. In 1964, President Lyndon Johnson appointed Mrs. Freeman to the six-member U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, and she was successively reappointed to the commission by Presidents Nixon, Ford and Carter. For 16 years, Freeman, acting alone and with other commissioners, investigated voting discrimination, recommended federal policies affecting civil rights, and conducted numerous hearings throughout the country to gather testimony that was to be incorporated in the commission’s landmark studies. In 1979 Mrs. Freeman resigned to accept President Carter’s nomination as Inspector General of the Community Service Administration, a position accountable to the president and to Congress and responsible for ferreting out fraud, waste and corruption. In accepting her resignation from the civil rights commission, President Carter wrote, “You have rendered outstanding service to our nation as a member of the commission over a span of more than 15 years . . . You have insisted that this nation must follow policies that reflect an unequivocal commitment to the goal of equal opportunity for all in all walks of life. You have been unwilling to tolerate compromises when the dignity and worth of the individual have been at stake . . . You are one of our nation’s truly great leaders in the field of civil rights.” Mrs. Freeman left Washington, D.C., in 1981 and returned to her St. Louis law practice in the firm of Freeman, Whitfield, Montgomery, and Staples. A graduate of Hampton Institute and the Howard University School of Law, Freeman’s commitment to causes goes beyond her work in civil rights. Among her community service activities, she is a second vice president of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and first vice chair of the board of the National Council on the Aging. Her board memberships include the St. Louis branch of the NAACP, United Way of Greater St. Louis, and the St. Louis region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Her numerous honors include receiving the St. Louis Globe-Democrat’s “Woman of Achievement” award in public affairs and an award this past March from St. Louis’ Older Adult Service and Information System (OASIS).

WILLIAM LESTER HADLEY GRIFFIN

DOCTOR OF LAWS

W. L. Hadley Griffin’s growth from Wohl Shoe Company’s first legal counsel, to first chairman of the Board of Directors of Brown Group Inc., the parent company of one of the largest diversified footwear companies in America, is a story of innate talent, disciplined intelligence, business acumen, and determined energy. He began his career in 1947 handling all of Wohl Shoe Company’s legal matters; at the same time he was absorbing the shoe business going on around him, actually doing some retail selling, and learning everything he could about management and finance. The result was a steady series of promotions to assistant secretary and treasurer, to secretary of Brown Shoe Company upon his return from an eighteen-month tour of duty as a naval officer in the Korean War, to director, vice-president, and then executive vice-president. In 1968, Mr. Griffin became president of Brown Shoe Company, with the additional title of chief executive officer added the following year. He then was made chairman of the executive committee. When Brown Shoe, Wohl and other member companies were reorganized as Brown Group, Inc. in 1972, Mr. Griffin, one of the prime movers for diversification, was elected its first chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer. Under his presidency the company moved steadily forward, breaking all previous records for sales and earnings. He is now chairman of the executive committee and a director of Brown Group. A former president of Civic Progress, he served from 1983-1987 as chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. Mr. Griffin’s many accomplishments have not been limited to success in business. He is known by his colleagues in civic and community affairs as the person who provides the leadership to move things forward. He is a strong advocate for education and the arts. Elected a Washington University trustee in 1967, Mr. Griffin has been a major force in guiding the University to the forefront of American higher education. In 1979 he took on the responsibility of chairing the Commission on the Future of Washington University, a 269-member group that for 28 months engaged in a critical evaluation of the major units of the University. The commission's 1981 report provided the impetus and direction for the ALLIANCE FOR WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, a fund-raising campaign that raised $630.5 million, exceeding its $300 million goal by 110 percent. Mr. Griffin, now a life trustee, served as chairman of the University's Board of Trustees during the major portion of the ALLIANCE campaign. A devoted music lover, he has served as chairman and president and is currently vice chairman of the board of the St. Louis Symphony. In 1967 he spearheaded a $4.75 million combined fund drive of the St. Louis Symphony Society and the Arts and Education Council. He also is remembered as general chairman of the 1972 United Way campaign that reversed a three-year downward trend in donation dollars. For this kind of dedication to his community, Mr. Griffin was named the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's 1973 "Man of the Year." Mr. Griffin earned his bachelor's degree from Williams College in 1940 and his law degree in 1947 from the Washington University School of Law, which awarded him the Distinguished Law Alumni citation in 1982, and the Order of the Coif in 1986.

WALTER EUGENE MASSEY

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Dr. Walter E. Massey began his academic career at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Ga., in 1954, after completing the 10th grade in his hometown of Hattiesburg, Miss. A Ford Foundation Early Admission Scholarship enabled him to attend college, an intimidating venture for this teen-ager who had never heard of physics or taken a course in chemistry, trigonometry or advanced algebra. After two weeks, he asked his mother if he could come home, but she wouldn't hear of it. Dr. Massey persevered and, with the support of faculty mentors, graduated from Morehouse in 1958 and went on to earn both a master's and a doctorate in physics in 1966 from Washington University, where he was a prize student of the distinguished physicist Eugene Feenberg. He also is a former trustee of the University. Dr. Massey's career has been marked by extraordinary accomplishments in science, education, administration and public service, culminating in his current position at the University of Chicago as professor of physics and vice president for research and for Argonne National Laboratory. He is responsible for formulating, articulating and implementing the research policies of the university, including relations with industry and federal agencies. He also manages Argonne, one of the country's largest energy research facilities. Dubbed "a nuclear power" and a "man of energy" in a 1985 Chicago Tribune feature article, Dr. Massey, in 1988, became the first African-American to be elected president of the largest and most respected science organization in the nation, the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS). He served as chairman of AAAS the following year, and he currently serves as vice president of the American Physical Society. Among his research areas are the many-body theories of quantum liquids and solids; he has lectured extensively on the teaching of science and mathematics and on the role of science and technology in a democratic society. He is a member of President George Bush's Council of Advisers on Science and Technology. At Brown University, where he served as professor of physics and dean of the College, he founded the Inner City Teachers of Science, a program to educate science teachers at urban schools. During his tenure at Brown, Dr. Massey received the Distinguished Service Citation from the American Association of Physics Teachers in 1975 and was named by Change magazine as one of the 100 most important educators in America. One of Dr. Massey's pet projects is acting as a mentor for science students, advising them in much the same way that he was guided early in his own career. In a 1987 speech to the National Conference of Minority Students at the University of Chicago, he said: "At critical points in my life and in my academic career, mentors have given me the confidence and support without which it would have been almost impossible to carry on. Unfortunately, not everyone is so fortunate. Minority students, who perhaps need that sort of support more than most other students, often find it unavailable." Dr. Walter Massey is working to change that for all students.

IAN ROBERT MAXWELL

DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Internationally renowned British publisher Robert Maxwell entered the communications field in response to the scarcity of scientific information following World War II. In 1951, he made his first entrepreneurial move with the purchase of a scientific journal publishing company. Soon academic and research libraries, deprived for many years of scientific and technical information, were able to replenish their holdings with current research published by Mr. Maxwell’s Pergamon Press. From that strategic base, Mr. Maxwell has built a communications empire that encompasses newspaper, book and magazine publishing, as well as network and cable television operations, employing some 15,000 people in more than 16 countries. In 1988, Maxwell Communications, the main public company of the Maxwell group, became one of the top 10 integrated global communications and information businesses. The March 12, 1990, issue of FORTUNE magazine reports that Mr. Maxwell is experimenting with freedom of expression in Eastern Europe through his recent investments in a Hungarian daily, Magyar Hirlap, and in the Moscow News. Born in Czechoslovakia, Mr. Maxwell and his six siblings grew up surrounded by poverty and hunger. Most of his family died at Auschwitz during the Holocaust, but the 15-year-old Maxwell, who had had only three years of formal education, escaped via the underground movement through Hungary. While fighting with the French Resistance, he was wounded and captured by the Germans. He eventually escaped to England and joined the British army. Commissioned a captain in the field during the Battle of Normandy, he received the Military Cross for outstanding leadership and bravery during a battle on the Dutch-German border. Mr. Maxwell’s leadership qualities shone in the political arena from 1964 to 1970 when he served in Parliament as the Labour member for Buckingham. In the House of Commons, he chaired a committee to advise the government on a more effective use of science to achieve national policy objectives. He was able to put through a bill that became the Clean Air Act, subsequently adopted as a model by more than 100 countries. In 1968, he was elected vice-chairman of the Council of Europe’s Committee on Science and Technology. His global expertise has attracted governmental leaders in the United States. In 1987, Mr. Maxwell, who is fluent in nine languages, was named a member of the U.S. Information Agency’s International Council, advising the president of the United States, the secretary of state and the National Security Council on how the United States is perceived abroad and on how our leaders could define better the United States’ role in world affairs. An admitted workaholic, Mr. Maxwell regularly puts in 16 to 18 hours a day, six or seven days a week. Among his many honors, Mr. Maxwell, the father of seven, has been decorated by the governments of Bulgaria, Sweden, Poland, Finland and France.

GYO OBATA

DOCTOR OF FINE ARTS

In a field that often produces stark and impersonal structures, architect Gyo Obata, co-founder of Hellmuth, Obata & Kassabaum (HOK), advocates “providing beauty that works.” Mr. Obata’s genius lies in being able to understand, formulate and respond to both pragmatic and aesthetic issues and to synthesize the two in a creative solution, under cost and on time. A number of outstanding HOK projects clearly reflect that ethic. The renovation of the century-old Union Station has earned praise both as an aesthetic achievement and as a key factor in St. Louis’ rejuvenation. Progressive Architecture (P/A) has described the project as “animated by an exhilarating play of light that brings the whole complex to life.” Mr. Obata recently received the Levee Stone Award, which recognizes extraordinary leadership in the renewal of St. Louis’ downtown area. Of the Obata-designed National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C., the most-visited museum in the world, Smithsonian magazine wrote, “It can possibly be called the finest building of its kind ever erected. It is pretty safe to call it unique. And there is no quibble with calling it extraordinary.” Other memorable HOK buildings designed under Mr. Obata’s direction include the St. Louis Priory Chapel, the Kellogg Company headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich., Levi’s Plaza, the headquarters of Levi Strauss & Company in San Francisco, the $4 billion 2,400-acre campus of King Saud University in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, the King Khaled Airport in Riyadh and the George R. Moscone Convention Center in San Francisco. Current projects include the design of a spiral-shaped temple and world headquarters building for the RLDS church in Independence, Mo., the Sierra Point resort hotel in San Francisco, and the Tokyo Telecom Center. Mr. Obata graduated from Washington University with a bachelor’s degree in architecture in 1945. He then studied under the master architect Eliel Saarinen at the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan, where Mr. Obata received a master’s degree in architecture and urban design in 1946. Mr. Obata’s multidisciplinary approach was influenced strongly by the micro-to-macro approach espoused by Saarinen. Mr. Obata remembers his mentor saying, “First you design a chair, then you design a room, then you design a house, then you design a street, and then you design a city. You always ask ‘What’s the next relationship?’” This approach is the basis for Mr. Obata’s belief that the final evaluation of any building is how well it relates to its surroundings and to its users. After serving with the U.S. Army, Mr. Obata worked with the Chicago firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill for four years. In 1951 he joined the St. Louis firm Hellmuth, Yamasaki and Leinweber. Four years later that firm was organized as HOK, which now has 10 offices worldwide, including London, Hong Kong and San Francisco, Mr. Obata’s birthplace.

Dear Alma Mater, Thy name is sweet to me.
Those days of youth which All of us spent with thee

Our hearts are all for thee Fair Washington.
Form a dear history, Fair Washington.

Thy halls shall honored be Throughout this great country
Could they renewed be, We'd live our days with thee

For all eternity, Our Washington.
For all eternity, Our Washington.
