The Commencement Ceremony

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1100.

In the early days of the University of Paris the discipline of the students, and indeed their entire education fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. In an attempt to perform his office, the Bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers who felt they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to grant the degree.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the Bishop and the teaching masters. By 1200 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop who conferred the degree. The ceremony you will witness this morning is the successor to this medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present the qualified candidates to the Chancellor, acting as executive officer of the Board. Today the Chancellor and the Board act, as did the medieval Bishop when, acting together, they grant accreditation upon the student's completion of the Faculty's requirements.

Academic Dress

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates indicates the degree held, the subject in which it is held, and the institution granting it. Gowns are of three kinds: the Bachelor's with full, pointed sleeves, hanging open; the Master's with flowing sleeves which hang below the opening at the wrist; the Doctor's with very full sleeves gathered at the wrist. The gowns are black, although occasionally trimmed with colored velvet. The hoods, on the other hand, are of many colors. The color of the lining of the hood indicates the institution granting the degree: e.g., the hood of Washington University is lined with red and green. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university.

White—Arts, Letters, Humanities
Dark Blue—Philosophy
Golden Yellow—Science
Orange—Engineering
Gray—Technology
Blue Violet—Architecture

Silver Beige—Business
Brown—Fine Arts
Citron—Social Work
Purple—Law
Lilac—Dentistry
Green—Medicine

Academic dress markedly different from the above description indicates a degree from a foreign university.

Banners

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division is also represented on the University's Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. You will note that the side sections of the banners are red and green, the University's colors, and that the center section, which bears the seal of the University, is the color of the academic division.

HONORARY GRAND MARSHAL

HENRY GERARD SCHWARTZ

The August A. Busch, Jr. Professor Emeritus in Neurological Surgery at the Washington University School of Medicine, Dr. Henry G. Schwartz has received virtually every major distinction in the field of neurological surgery. He has served as President of the American Academy of Neurological Surgery, the Society of Neurological Surgeons, the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, the Southern Neurological Society and as Chairman of the American Board of Neurological Surgery and Editor of the Journal of Neurosurgery. In 1973 he was honored guest of the international Congress of Neurological Surgeons and in 1975 was named neurosurgeon of the year by Surgical Neurology. Dr. Schwartz became associated with Washington University in 1936 when he became a Fellow in Neurological Surgery. He was soon credited with making the first direct recording in the United States of electrical activity from the human brain. From 1942 to 1945 Dr. Schwartz served with distinction as a Lt. Colonel and Assistant Chief of Surgical Service of the 21st General Hospital in North Africa, Italy and France, receiving the Legion of Merit from the U. S. Army and Commendation from the British Army. Returning to Washington University after WW II, Dr. Schwartz became Professor of Neurological Surgery in 1946, served as Acting Head of the Department of Surgery from 1965-67 and became August A. Busch, Jr. Professor of Neurological Surgery in 1970. A primary focus of his investigations has been the central pathways of the nervous system. He was a pioneer in the development of surgical techniques for pain relief in patients suffering from malignant tumors. Even before entering Princeton University as an undergraduate, Henry Schwartz had determined to become a neurosurgeon. After his medical training at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine he was a Fellow and then Instructor in Anatomy at Harvard Medical School. His outstanding contributions to medical education as well as to surgical procedures have been recognized by numerous awards including the Washington University Alumni Award, the Johns Hopkins Alumni Heritage Award, and the Harvey Cushing Medal of the American Association of Neurological Surgeons. He has been honored by the establishment of the Henry G. Schwartz lectureship at Washington University and by selection as Honorary President of the World Federation of Neurosurgical Societies.
HONORARY DEGREES

OSCAR ARIAS SÁNCHEZ

DOCTOR OF LAWS

The contributions of Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias Sánchez to the promotion of world accord clearly establish his place as one of the leading peace activists of the world today. Author of the Central American Peace Plan of 1987, Dr. Arias is credited by many to have been largely responsible for the peaceful settlement of the Nicaraguan Contra War. He designed the peace plan to resolve conflict in the region by calling for regular elections, political and press freedom, respect for civil rights, peace talks, cease-fires and negotiations to stop guerrilla wars. Soon after the emergence of the plan, the U.S. Congress, in February of 1988, voted to halt military aid to the Contras, and Nicaragua's President Daniel Ortega stepped down after his Sandinista Party lost the national election. For his "outstanding contribution to the possible return of stability and peace to a region long torn by strife and civil war," the Nobel Committee awarded Dr. Arias the Nobel Peace Prize of 1987. Dr. Arias devoted the $332,500 cash award to the creation of the Arias Foundation for Peace and Human Progress, a program of conflict resolution modeled after former President Jimmy Carter's center in Atlanta. Born in Costa Rica in 1940, Dr. Arias majored in law and economics at the University of Costa Rica, and then received a master's degree in economics and political science from the London School of Economics and a doctorate in political science from the University of Essex in England. After teaching at the University of Costa Rica in San Jose as a professor of political science and serving as director of the Office for National Planning and Economic Policy, Dr. Arias' political career began in 1977 with his election to congress on the National Liberation Party ticket. He gave up his seat in 1981 to serve as general secretary of the National Liberation Party, a position he held until 1985 when he became his party's candidate for the presidency. He was elected president of Costa Rica in 1986. During his tenure, Dr. Arias focused on encouraging development in Costa Rica—implementing various initiatives in housing, education, science, technology, women's rights, environmental conservation and production. Recognizing that violence in Central America threatened the region's possibilities for development, he dedicated his efforts to promoting peace in the region. Dr. Arias currently is developing the Centre for Peace and Reconciliation through the Arias Foundation. The centre will serve to enhance his efforts toward peace, economic development and democratic government.

PURNELL WHITTINGTON CHOPPIN

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

As an intern and resident in internal medicine at the Washington University School of Medicine in the early and mid-1950s, Purnell W. Choppin, M.D., began building a highly successful career as an investigator, administrator, teacher and physician, ultimately becoming president of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute (HHMI). The Institute conducts medical research and has investigators stationed at 52 sites around the country, including the Washington University Medical Center. Dr. Choppin discovered how certain viruses, particularly influenza and measles viruses, penetrate cells, attack the body's defense mechanisms and multiply. His research ultimately opened up a new field of drug therapy. He has advised various governmental and private organizations on such subjects as virology, multiple sclerosis and cancer. Considered by colleagues to be an unpretentious man who is always willing to help others, Dr. Choppin joined the HHMI in 1985 as vice president and chief scientific officer, responsible for its major scientific programs. He was elected president in 1987. The Louisiana native came to HHMI from The Rockefeller Institute (now University), where for nearly 30 years, he held a number of positions, including vice president of academic programs, dean of graduate studies and Leon Hess Professor of Virology, heading a laboratory that continues to concentrate on his initial discoveries. Dr. Choppin is a member of numerous scientific and professional societies, including the National Academy of Sciences, American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Association of American Physicians. He is chairman of the National Academy of Sciences' Section on Microbiology and Immunology and in 1985-86 he served as president. of the American Society for Virology. Among his many honors and awards are the 1984 Selman A. Waksman Award for excellence in microbiology from the National Academy of Sciences and the 1990 Alumni Achievement Award from the Washington University School of Medicine. As an undergraduate, Dr. Choppin attended Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge and received a medical degree in 1953 from the university’s medical school in New Orleans. He was inducted into the Louisiana State University Alumni Hall of Distinction in 1984 and was named Alumnus of the Year by the university’s medical school in 1987.

RONALD HARRY COASE

DOCTOR OF LAWS

When Ronald H. Coase is not busy advising students at the University of Chicago where he is the Clifton R. Musser Professor Emeritus of Economics and Senior Fellow in Law and Economics, chances are that he is writing. Dr. Coase, who has been at the University of Chicago since 1964, has written more than 70 articles and papers on subjects ranging from the British Post Office to payola in radio and television broadcasting. His books include The Iron and Steel Industry 1926-1935 and The Firm, the Market and the Law. Born in England, Dr. Coase first came to the United States in 1931 as the Sir Ernest Cassel Travelling Scholar of the University of London while still an undergraduate at the university. He spent the 1931-32 academic year gathering information for what would be his first lecture as an assistant lecturer at the Dundee School of Economics and Commerce in London. That lecture, later published under the title, “The Theory of the Firm,” bears on many central economic questions, including the demarcation between market exchange and planning. Today, his lecture-turned-article is one of the most frequently cited in economics literature, and 50 years after publication, was commemorated at a Yale conference of leading scholars. In 1938 Dr. Coase wrote a series of articles on applying economic principles to accounting. Those articles, which became classics in the field, were commemorated 50 years later at yet another conference of leading scholars, held at the University of Rochester. During World War II, Dr. Coase was invited to do statistics work for both Great Britain and the United States, and was promoted to chief statistician while working for the Central Statistical Office in the British offices of the War Cabinet. Since returning to the United States in 1951, he has held professorships at the University of Buffalo and the University of Virginia, where he published his best known piece, “The Problem of Social Cost,” out of which arose the internationally renowned Coase Theorem. This article is thought to be the single most frequently cited article in all of economics literature. Several major fields of economic research, including law and economics, transactions cost and institutional economics, developed out of this one article. Dr. Coase, who received a doctorate in economics from the University of London in 1951, is an honorary fellow of the London School of Economics and a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He has been hailed by some scholars as the most important economist of the 20th century. From 1964 to 1982, Dr. Coase was editor of the Journal of Law & Economics. On his resignation, William Landes, Dennis W. Carlton and Frank Easterbrook wrote that his retirement was “a great loss for the Journal and the economic study of law.” They added that “His influence on those who contribute to and learn from the economic study of law’s effects will long survive his editorship.”

THOMAS M. GRABER

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Thomas M. Graber was not satisfied with simply practicing dentistry after he graduated from Washington University’s School of Dental Medicine in 1940. He continued his education, receiving a master’s in orthodontics from Northwestern University Dental School in 1946, and later a doctorate in anatomy from Northwestern University’s Medical School in 1950. For more than four decades, he has devoted himself to education and research. In 1946 he began teaching orthodontics at Northwestern University, first as an assistant professor and then as an associate professor. He co-founded Northwestern University’s Cleft Lip and Palate Institute in 1947, serving as the director of research for ten years. From 1958 to 1967, Dr. Graber served as a special lecturer at the University of Michigan Dental School. He co-founded and became director of the Kenilworth Dental Research Foundation in 1964, a position he still holds today. From 1967 to 1982, Dr. Graber was a professor in the departments of biological sciences, anatomy, pediatrics and anthropology at the University of Chicago, where he also found time to serve as a research associate professor in plastic and reconstructive surgery. He founded the orthodontic section of the Pritzker School of Medicine at the university, serving as professor and chair. In addition to maintaining a private orthodontic practice and serving as a visiting professor at the University of Michigan, Dr. Graber has been a research scientist for the American Dental Association Research Institute since 1978. Recipient of numerous National Institutes of Health research grants over the years, he is the author of more than 15 books and 750 articles. “He's probably one of the most widely published orthodontists in the world today, if not the most,” says Richard Smith, dean of the Washington University School of Dental Medicine. “He is the author of standard textbooks for both graduate and undergraduate training.” Dr. Graber began writing while at Washington University as student editor of the Dental Journal and also as editor and columnist for Student Life. Today, he is the editor-in-chief of the American Journal of Orthodontics and Dentofacial Orthopedics, a post he has held since 1985. Dr. Graber has received virtually every honor the profession has to offer, including the 1970 Distinguished Service Award from the American Association of Orthodontists. He received the Northwestern General Alumni Merit Award in 1977 and the Washington University Alumnus of the Year Award in 1980.

STANLEY FRANK MUSIAL

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Stanley Frank Musial, affectionately known as “Stan The Man,” was star of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals for 22 seasons. No wonder, then, that the Donora, Pa., native has always loved baseball and doesn’t remember a time when he did not own a baseball. Beginning as a $65 a month Class D pitcher in his teens, Mr. Musial came to the major leagues in 1941 at the age of 20. He won seven National League hitting championships, hitting over .300 his first 16 seasons in the major leagues and ending up with a career average of .331. He was selected National League Player of the Year three times and The Sporting News’ Major League Player of the Year twice. Sports Illustrated named him its Sportsman of the Year in 1957 and The Sporting News honored him as Player of the Decade for 1946-1956. Sports Illustrated named him its Sportsman of the Year in 1957 and The Sporting News honored him as Player of the Decade for 1946-1956. He retired in 1963 and was inducted into baseball’s Hall of Fame in 1969. He still holds almost all National League records for durability and consistency. Reflecting on his career, Mr. Musial said, “I loved to play baseball. It was fun all those years. It was a lifelong ambition to be a major league player. Going into baseball’s Hall of Fame was a great honor. Of course, having the statue of me down at the ballpark in St. Louis was another great honor.” After retiring from baseball, Mr. Musial pursued various business interests, including ownership of two Stan Musial and Biggie’s restaurants in St. Louis and three hotels—two in Florida and one in St. Louis. He also served as senior vice president of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals and president and chairman of the St. Louis Steamers. Former President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed him to head the U.S. Council on Physical Fitness. In 1987 he retired from his businesses and now devotes most of his time to charities. He has worked with the Easter Seal Society, the Muscular Dystrophy Association and the Special Olympics, among other organizations. In addition, he has been active in promoting athletics at various educational institutions. He is an honorary member of the University of Missouri-St. Louis’ Red and Gold Athletic Scholarship Committee, which raises funds for the university’s athletic department, and in 1985 he and his wife, Lillian, established the Stan and Lillian Musial Scholarship for athletes at St. Louis University. In addition to increasing his civic activities, retirement also has allowed Mr. Musial to travel frequently to Poland, his father’s native country. “President Bush and the president of Little League gave Little League charters to four different cities in Poland, and I’ve been helping them with their baseball,” Mr. Musial said. In recognition of his contributions, a Little League baseball field in Wroclaw has been named in his honor.

HOWARD STANLEY NEMEROV

DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Despite his unassuming appearance as he strolls across campus in a well-worn denim jacket, Howard Nemirov is considered one of the greatest literary figures in the United States. Mr. Nemirov, the Washington University Edward Mallinckrodt Distinguished University Professor Emeritus of English, also is known as the third poet laureate of the United States. In that position, which he held for two years, Mr. Nemirov made it a habit to lecture to young people about poetry. As poet laureate, Mr. Nemirov advised the Library of Congress on its literary programs and recommended new poets to be recorded in the library’s Archive of Recorded
Poetry and Literature, tasks in which his critical skill was put to use. When Mr. Nemerov was appointed to the laureateship in 1988, Librarian of Congress James Billington commented to a New York Times reporter that "It is a happy moment for poetry that [he] will become our new ambassador to the republic of letters." Mr. Nemerov, a Chancellor of the Academy of American Poets, is author of 26 books, including 11 volumes of poetry. One of Mr. Nemerov's volumes, The Collected Poems of Howard Nemerov (1978), won both a National Book Award and a Pulitzer Prize. In addition to poetry, Mr. Nemerov has written novels, short stories and criticism. When Time magazine honored the Earth in lieu of a "person of the year" for 1988, Mr. Nemerov was asked to write a poem for the occasion. Part of the poem was reprinted on T-shirts for Earth Day 1990 and many Washington University students proudly sport the shirt in all seasons. In 1987, Mr. Nemerov was one of 11 people awarded the National Medal of Arts by President Ronald Reagan during a White House ceremony. KETC-TV, St. Louis' Public Broadcasting Service station, aired a documentary about Nemerov's life and writing that was rebroadcast nationally in 1982. Mr. Nemerov, who received his bachelor's degree in 1941 from Harvard University, joined the Washington University faculty in 1969 as Fanny Hurst Visiting Professor of English. He previously taught at Hamilton College, Hollins College and Brandeis University. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters, and he is a fellow of the Academy of Arts and Sciences. An honorary Phi Beta Kappa, Mr. Nemerov most recently received the St. Louis Award in November 1990 in recognition of the acclaim the community has received because of his outstanding literary achievement.

HELEN HENNESSY VENDLER

DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Helen Vendler is widely regarded as one of America's leading critics of poetry. Her criticism is best known for its meticulously detailed explanation of poems and for its comprehension of the poet's aesthetic principles. In describing Dr. Vendler, William H. Pritchard hails her in The New Republic as "the best poetry reviewer in America." A Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Vendler graduated summa cum laude with a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Emmanuel College in 1954. After graduation she studied French and Italian for a year at the University of Louvain and spent another year studying English literature at Boston University. In 1960 she received a doctorate in English and American literature from Harvard University, where she currently is the A. Kingsley Porter University Professor in the Department of English and placement program director for Ph.D. students in the department. Dr. Vendler also is Harvard's associate dean for academic affairs. Since the 1960s, Dr. Vendler has contributed several hundred pieces, including articles, review-essays, and reviews to numerous literary publications, most notably The New York Times Book Review and The New Yorker, where she has served as poetry critic since 1978. Dr. Vendler is the author of seven books, including the award-winning Part of Nature, Part of Us: Modern American Poets and The Music of What Happens: Poems, Poets, Critics. Both collections are examinations of contemporary poetry. Part of Nature, Part of Us was the unanimous choice for the 1980 National Book Critics Circle Award in criticism. In his review of the book, Denis Donoghue writes in The New York Times Book Review that "when she likes a poem and sways to its music, she pays it the tribute of paraphrase in terms that are often just as memorable as the poem itself." John Bayley notes in The Times Literary Supplement that Dr. Vendler "is certainly the most thoughtful and humane, as she is the least system-bound, critic of poetry now writing." In addition to her articles and reviews, Dr. Vendler has written highly praised book-length studies of poets W. B. Yeats, George Herbert, Wallace Stevens and John Keats. A past president of the Modern Language Association of America, she has served as a judge for the National Book Award in poetry and the Pulitzer Prize in poetry. A National Institute of Arts and Letters Award winner, Dr. Vendler also has received numerous Fulbright fellowships to teach at such places as the University of Singapore, Trinity College in Ireland and the University of Bordeaux. She was Washington University's Fanny Hurst Visiting Professor of English Literature in 1975. Among the institutions that have awarded her honorary degrees are the University of Oslo and Columbia University. Her most recent projects are a commentary on Shakespeare's sonnets and a collection of her lectures on Yeats.
CLIFTON REGINALD WHARTON, JR.

DOCTOR OF LAWS

An economist of extraordinary talent, Clifton Wharton has excelled in three careers: foreign economic development, higher education, and business. A native of Boston, Dr. Wharton entered Harvard at the age of 16 and graduated cum laude in 1947 with a bachelor’s degree in history. He attended the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies, where he received a master’s degree in international affairs in 1948. He then joined the American International Association for Economic and Social Development, where he headed the reports and analysis department, concentrating on Latin American countries. After four years of research in economics at the University of Chicago, where he received a Ph.D. in 1958, he began work at The Agricultural Development Council, Inc., a private nonprofit international organization headed by John D. Rockefeller III. As council associate in Malaysia, Dr. Wharton’s area of concern also covered Laos, Vietnam, Thailand and Cambodia. In 1970, after he had attained the rank of vice president of the Council, he began a career in higher education as president of Michigan State University. After eight years there, Dr. Wharton was named chancellor of the State University of New York (SUNY), one of the country’s largest university systems. He remained at SUNY until 1987, when he was appointed chairman and chief executive officer of the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association—College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF), thus moving into his third career. TIAA-CREF is the largest pension fund in the world and the fifth largest U.S. insurance company, with 1990 assets of over $85 billion and more than 1.3 million policyholders. Dr. Wharton has remained active in U.S. foreign policy, particularly agriculture; from 1966-69, he was a member of the U.S. Department of State Advisory Panel on East Asian and Pacific Affairs. Appointed in 1976 by then President Gerald Ford to be the first chairman of the State Department’s Board for International Food and Agricultural Development, he was reappointed by President Jimmy Carter in 1980. Dr. Wharton also was a member of the Presidential Commission on World Hunger, and served as co-chairman of the Commission on Security and Economic Assistance. In addition to these public commitments, he also has served as trustee and chairman of The Rockefeller Foundation. In the annals of black history, Dr. Wharton has achieved a number of pioneering “firsts,” including being the first African-American to head a predominantly white university, first to head a major foundation, and first to head a Fortune 100 service company. Among his numerous honors is the Joseph C. Wilson Award for achievement and promise in international affairs, awarded in 1977 in recognition of his service in southeast Asia, where he trained many of today’s leading southeast Asian economists. In 1987 he also received the inaugural Black History Makers Award presented by Associated Black Charities at Carnegie Hall. In a recent national survey of more than 500 presidents of public colleges and universities, Dr. Wharton was named one of the five most influential leaders in the country.

A Brief History of Washington University

Founded in 1853, the University was located in downtown St. Louis for its first fifty years. Ground for a new site on the edge of the city was purchased in 1894 and in 1900 construction was begun on the first five buildings of a plan based upon the medieval courtyards of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges.

These first ivy covered Gothic buildings with their red granite walls, arches and gargoyles formed the quadrangle. Upon completion, these original buildings were leased to the 1904 World’s Fair. The lease money made it possible to begin construction of additional buildings and all were used for the Fair before the University moved in. The athletic stadium, Francis Field, was built to accommodate the 1904 Olympic games, presented in conjunction with the Fair.

Over the years, the original “Academic Gothic” architecture has been succeeded by a variety of eclectic styles, but certain key principles of the original plan were retained. Plazas and courtyards still reflect the original theme.

The Alma Mater

Dear Alma Mater, Thy name is sweet to me
Our hearts are all for thee
Fair Washington
Thy halls shall honored be
Throughout this great country
For all eternity, Our Washington.

Those days of youth which
All of us spent with thee
Form a dear history,
Fair Washington
Could they renewed be,
We’d live our days with thee
For all eternity, Our Washington.
