COMMENCEMENT
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1853, the University was located in downtown St. Louis for its first fifty years. Ground for a new site on the edge of the city was purchased in 1894 and in 1900 construction was begun on the first five buildings of a plan based upon the medieval courtyards of Oxford and Cambridge Colleges.

These first ivy covered Gothic buildings with their red granite walls, arches and gargoyles formed the quadrangle. Upon completion, these original buildings were leased to the 1904 World’s Fair. The lease money made it possible to begin construction of additional buildings and all were used for the Fair before the University moved in. The athletic stadium, Francis Field, was built to accommodate the 1904 Olympic games, presented in conjunction with the Fair.

Over the years, the original “Academic Gothic” architecture has been succeeded by a variety of eclectic styles, but certain key principles of the original plan were retained. Plazas and courtyards still reflect the original theme.

THE COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY

Washington University and other American universities, public and private, follow the pattern of degree-granting developed at the University of Paris, which was founded about 1300.

In the early days of the University of Paris the discipline of the students, and indeed their entire education fell under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Paris who was responsible for local educational matters. In an attempt to perform his office, the Bishop claimed supervision of curriculum and degree-granting. Here he ran into trouble from the teachers who felt they were the proper judges of the qualifications of their students. They demanded the right to grant the degree.

The modern commencement ceremony represents a compromise between the Bishop and the teaching masters. By 1290 the masters were judging the merits of the student and then recommending him to the Bishop who conferred the degree. The ceremony you will witness tomorrow is the successor to this medieval compromise. The Faculty sits on the platform in its role as teacher and examiner. Its leaders, the Deans, present the qualified candidates to the Chancellor. Acting upon the recommendation of the Faculty, the Chancellor, as executive officer of the Board of Trustees, formally confers the appropriate degree.

ACADEMIC DRESS

The academic dress worn by Faculty and candidates have their origins in the clerical robes worn by the students and teachers at the earliest medieval universities. American colleges and universities adopted a code of academic dress in 1895 that included regulating the cut and style of the gowns and prescribing colors to represent the different fields of learning. The code, which has since been updated and revised, is recommended for use by U.S. colleges and universities. The design of caps and gowns is determined by the following:

Level of degree earned (bachelor's, master's or doctor's): This is reflected in the design of the basic black gown—how full it is, whether or not it has trim on the sleeves, and the design of the sleeves, either pointed or rounded. The gown for the bachelor's degree, which is designed to be worn open or closed, has pointed sleeves. The gown for the master's degree, which can be worn open or closed, has an oblong sleeve. The doctor's degree gown can be worn open or closed and has bell-shaped sleeves. Bachelor's and master's degree gowns are untrimmed. The gown for the doctor's degree is faced down with front black velvet and three bars of velvet across the sleeves. The color of the facings and cordstrips may reflect the distinctive color of the discipline to which the degree pertains.

Institution granting the degree: Some institutions use their school colors—rather than basic black—for the gowns. The institution also is reflected in the hoods. The backs of the hoods are lined with silk showing the colors of the institution granting the degree, or the institution with which the wearer is connected. Washington University's hood is lined with red and green, the school's official colors. The color of the tassel on the cap and of the velvet edging of the hood, carried forward around the throat, indicates the division of the university.

Title of degree: This is reflected by the color of the trim on the front of the hood. Examples would be:

- White—Arts, Letters, Humanities, Silver Beige—Business
- Light Blue—Education, Brown—Art, Dark Blue—Philosophy
- Citron—Social Work, Golden Yellow—Science
- Purple—Law, Orange—Engineering, Green—Medicine

Blue Violet—Architecture.

BANNERS

In addition to the coloring present in the academic dress, the division is also represented on the University's Commencement banners. These banners are carried by a student marshal at the head of the procession for their division. You will note that the side sections of the banners are red and green, the University's colors, and that the center section, which bears the seal of the University, is the color of the academic division.

THE QUADRANGLE

The site of the University Commencement Ceremony each spring, the Quadrangle is surrounded by the University's four oldest buildings: Brooking Hall to the east, Ridgley Hall to the west, Cupples Hall to the north and Busch Hall to the south. All four buildings were used by the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company during the 1904 World's Fair. The outdoor stage was added in 1905 and named after Louis D. Beaumont, founder of the May Department Store Company. The Quadrangle contains a number of commemorative plaques and inscriptions. As you walk up the main steps leading to the archway separating North and South Brooking Hall, two inscriptions on the east facade recognize the University's original founding in 1853 as Eliot Seminary and its re-christening as Washington University in 1857. The Latin inscription above the archway reads: DESCENDI SI CUPIDAS INTRARE SABerre habemus ("If you desire to enter, enter. We bid you welcome").

The plaque embedded in the ground beneath the Brooking Hall archway honors Washington University's founder and first Chancellor William Greenleaf Eliot. The plaque was given to the University during the centennial celebrations in 1955 by the First Unitarian Church of St. Louis. Finally, on the west facade of Brooking Hall above the clock the Latin inscription reads: Gratia Horae, Opera Munitum ("The hours go by, but the works remain").

UNIVERSITY SEAL

The University seal (on the cover) was developed by Holmes Smith, Professor of Drawing and History of Art, 1895, using elements from the coat of arms of George Washington (after whom the University was named) and Brut de la, the symbol of King Louis IX (patron and namesake of St. Louis). The seal was officially adopted by the Board of Trustees in March 1897. The University's motto, which appears inside an open book in the middle of the University seal, is Per Veritatem Vitae, "Strength through Truth." The motto was adopted in 1915. The current version of the University seal was created in the mid-1980s when the University's logo type was developed, incorporating many of the same elements.

CEREMONIAL, COMMENCEMENT AND STUDENT MARSHELS

Ceremonial Marshals are charged with the responsibility of hooding Student Marshals during the commencement exercises when degrees are conferred to each division. Commencement Marshals lead each division during the opening commencement procession. Student Marshals are selected by the deans of each division to represent the student body of their division. The student marshals carry the divisional banners and signs during the procession.

THE ORDER OF PROCESSION

THE CEREMONIAL, COMMENCEMENT AND STUDENT MARSHELS
EMERITUS APPOINTMENTS

Each year some members of the Washington University faculty reach the rank of emeritus. Through teaching, scholarship and service, they have enriched the University and the lives of their students and colleagues. In appreciation for what they have done, we record here the names of those who attain emeritus rank by the end of the academic year 1995-1996.

Bernard Hulbert
Assistant Professor of Clinical Medicine
At Washington University since 1949

Joseph Klumpp
Professor of Physics
At Washington University since 1961

William Kohn
Professor of Art
At Washington University since 1965

Marvin E. Levin
Professor of Clinical Medicine
At Washington University since 1951

Virgil Loeb, Jr.
Professor of Clinical Medicine
At Washington University since 1947

William H. Matheson
Professor of Comparative Literatures
At Washington University since 1970

Stephen Molnar
Professor of Anthropology
At Washington University since 1968

John N. Morris
Professor of English
At Washington University since 1967

Jacques P. Sauvage
Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology
At Washington University since 1966

Georgia Sheraer
Research Professor of Biology
At Washington University since 1953

William Reese Sherman
Professor of Biochemistry in Psychiatry
At Washington University since 1963

Morton E. Smith
Professor of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences; Professor of Pathology and Associate Dean for Pre-Graduate Education
At Washington University since 1961

R. Dale Stiwhart
Professor of Law
At Washington University since 1965

Jesse L. Ternberg
Professor of Surgery (Pediatric Surgery) and Professor of Surgery in Pediatrics
At Washington University since 1954

Burton M. Wheeler
Professor of English and of Religious Studies
At Washington University since 1956
HONORARY GRAND MARSHAL

MERLE KLING, Ph.D.

Professor Emeritus Merle Kling and Washington University are not quite synonymous, but for sixty years their histories have been so intertwined that each defines and informs the other. Merle Kling enrolled as an undergraduate at Washington University in 1936. He received his A.B. in 1940 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. In 1941 he completed an A.M., and, after three years of military service, returned to Washington University to complete his Ph.D. in 1949. In 1950 he was appointed Assistant Professor of Political Science, becoming Associate Professor in 1954, Professor in 1961, and Professor Emeritus in 1983.

The distinction of Professor Kling’s career as a political scientist is underscored by his having been appointed Research Associate in the Center of International Studies at Princeton for the academic year 1964-65 and by his having served as President of the Midwest Political Science Association Council (1965-66). From 1965-66, he edited the Midwest Journal of Political Science. His academic range is evident in the titles of his books: The Soviet Theory of Internationalism (1952), A Mexican Interest Group in Action (1961). He also contributed to Social Science Research in Latin America (1964) and to numerous professional journals and encyclopedias. He also has served as advisor to a former Mayor of St. Louis. His successes as a teacher led to his being awarded an alumni citation in 1964.

In 1966, when Chancellor Eliot summoned him to become Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Professor Kling undertook a task quite different from scholarship and teaching. He has claimed that his experience as a Master Sergeant in the South Pacific better prepared him for his administrative career than his academic degrees. After four years as Dean, he returned to the faculty only to be recalled to the deanship by Chancellor Danforth in 1975. In 1976 he was appointed Provost and continued in that role until his retirement. Both as Dean and Provost, Merle Kling won the respect and appreciation of his university colleagues by combining sensitivity to individual concerns with the highest academic standards.

Upon retirement, Merle Kling moved to New York City where he was soon prevailed upon to become President of Mercy College on an interim basis. In appreciation, Mercy College awarded him an honorary Doctor of Laws degree in 1985. Washington University has previously honored this distinguished alumnus, faculty member, and administrator by bestowing an honorary Doctor of Humanities upon him in 1983 and by establishing the Merle Kling Professorship of Letters, a position held by Professor Stanley Elkin until his death and now by Professor Gerald Early. The Washington University/Merle Kling symposium prospered.

HONORARY DEGREES

JANE ALEXANDER

DOCTOR OF FINE ARTS

Award-winning actress, author and producer Jane Alexander has championed the arts with grace, courage and eloquence for more than 35 years. She has taken her message about the importance of the arts to an even broader audience as chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts. President Clinton nominated Ms. Alexander in the summer of 1995 to become the NEA’s sixth chairman. Since her unanimous confirmation by the U.S. Senate and subsequent swearing-in ceremony on Oct. 8, 1995, she has served as a tireless and effective advocate for the arts in a time of shrinking budgets and shifting national priorities. As chairman, Ms. Alexander has visited more than 130 communities in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, met with more than 150 mayors and countless meetings with members of Congress, governors, state legislators, artists and community leaders. Ms. Alexander has outlined her vision of how the arts can be a powerful force for positive change. Taking up President Clinton’s challenge to “renew America,” Ms. Alexander has shown how the arts can boost local economies, prevent youth violence and drug abuse, impact educational reform, and enrich the cultural fabric of a community. Under her leadership, the NEA has implemented a range of new initiatives, including entering into partnerships with the U.S. Department of Transportation and other agencies to encourage design excellence at the federal level. Ms. Alexander also has strengthened the NEA’s long-standing relationship with the Department of Education for arts education research and development. On the international level, she signed an agreement with Canada and Mexico to begin a three-year artistic exchange program in 1994. As part of the Clinton administration’s goal for streamlining government, Ms. Alexander has initiated a number of internal reforms and reorganizations at the agency. Six months after taking office at the NEA, she convened the first national arts conference organized by the federal government. More than 1,000 artists and administrators attended “Art Reaches Into the 21st Century” in Chicago to share information and explore new ideas about the future of the arts in America. From this dialogue and her exploration of the state of the arts across the country, Ms. Alexander developed her priorities for investing in communities, education, new technology, preservation of our heritage, and partnerships for the arts. For her leadership, Ms. Alexander has received a number of honors, including the 1995 Montblanc de Culture North American Award, which she donated to the Writers Corps, and the Common Wealth Award for bringing the arts to the American people. The success Ms. Alexander has achieved so far in her current public service role can be added to her long list of accomplishments as a film and stage actor, producer and author. She has performed in 40 films, numerous television programs and more than 100 plays on stages across the country. Ms. Alexander, who has received six Tony Award nominations, four Academy Award nominations and five Emmy Award nominations, won a Tony Award for “The Great White Hope” and an Emmy for “Playing for Time.” She also received the Television Critics Circle Award for her portrayal of Eleanor Roosevelt in “Eleanor and Franklin.” Ms. Alexander has produced three films, including the acclaimed “A Marriage: Georgia O’Keeffe and Alfred Stieglitz” for PBS’s American Playhouse series. She has narrated numerous documentaries, short stories and books and is co-author of a translation of Henrik Ibsen’s “The Master Builder” as well as “The Bluefish Cookbook.” Prior to becoming NEA’s chairman, she served as an effective and articulate advocate for a number of worthwhile causes, including the National Stroke Association, Women’s Action for New Directions, and the Wildlife Conservation Society. In recognition of her leadership, she received the Living Legacy Jehovah Sudat Peace Award in 1988. A native of Brookline, Mass., Ms. Alexander attended Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y. and the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. She is married to director Ed Shinn and is stepmother to Tony, Geoffrey and Jonathan. Her son, Jace Alexander, is a stage and film director as well.

JAMES EDWIN DARNELL, JR.

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

In the four decades since James E. Darnell, Jr., graduated from the Washington University School of Medicine, he has compiled a remarkable record of contributions to molecular biology. A native of Columbus, Mississippi, Dr. Darnell received his bachelor’s degree in chemistry and biology from the University of Mississippi in 1951 and his medical degree from Washington University in 1955. After an internship on the Ward Medical Service at Barnes Hospital, he spent four years at the National Institutes of Health, working with Dr. Harry Eagle, a distinguished biological scientist, and an additional year at the Institut Pasteur in Paris with Francois Jacob, who subsequently was awarded the Nobel Prize. After returning to this country in 1961, Dr. Darnell joined the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and from 1964 to 1965 was a professor of biochemistry and cell biology at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was appointed to the first Molecular Biology Study Section convened by the National Institutes of Health (1965-69). Moving to Columbia University in 1968, he was appointed Kempeier Professor of Biological Sciences and then chair of biological sciences. Since 1974, he has been the Vincent Astor Professor and head of the Laboratory of Molecular Cell Biology at The Rockefeller University in New York. His work has been focused on the way in which cells receive information from the DNA that resides in the genes and the cell nucleus. RNA copies of this DNA are made for use in the cell cytoplasm. In the 1960s, Dr. Darnell’s group discovered that the RNA copies of genes for structural, called ribosomes are cut into two before use. This was the first evidence for RNA processing, now known to be an essential step for retrieval of information from DNA. In fact, RNA processing may have played a significant role in the origin of life. In 1971, Dr. Darnell and other scientists also obtained the first direct evidence for RNA processing in forming so-called messenger RNAs, or mRNAs, the genetic code for proteins. Large nuclear enzymes required a tail, known as polyA, that then appears in shorter cytoplasmic messenger RNAs. Dr. Darnell's group also showed that cells copy viral genes into very large nuclear RNA molecules, too large to be mRNA, suggesting that some of the copied RNA ends up floor length. In 1972, two scientists shared a Nobel Prize in 1983 for showing that, very surprisingly, the large nuclear RNA was cut, some were repaired, and others discarded in making mRNA. Another line of his research began in the 1980s culminated in 1992 with the discovery of a direct signaling pathway from the cell surface to genes. Dr. Darnell's group discovered that a set of dual function proteins, named STATs (Signal Transducers and Activators of Transcription) remain quiescent in the cell until circulating polypeptides bind to their specific cell surface receptors. Specific STATs then are activated, pair travel to the nucleus to turn on appropriate genes. This discovery has promoted a flurry of research into the ways cells receive signals to become programmed to growth factors and to deal with infection. During the course of his career, Dr. Darnell has trained more than 100 doctoral students and postdoctoral fellows, almost half of whom are full professors in leading institutions throughout the world. He collaborated with the late Nobel Laureate Salvador Luria in writing two editions of the well-recognized textbook, Viral Virology, and also was the founding author of another leading text, Molecular Cell Biology. Dr. Darnell is the recipient of numerous prestigious awards, including election to the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and election as a foreign member of the Royal Society of London. He also is a recipient of the H. T. Rickers Award from the University of Chicago, the Gairdner Foundation International Award, and the Paul Jansen Prize in Advanced Biotechnology and Medicine, to name a few. He has two daughters, Jane Roller, have three children and five grandchildren.

CHARLES F. KNIGHT

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Charles F. Knight — chairman, president and chief executive officer of Emerson Electric Co. — is one of America's most highly respected corporate leaders and a major contributor to the betterment of both Washington University and the St. Louis community. Since he became chief executive officer of Emerson Electric Co. in 1975 and chairman of its board in 1974, Emerson's sales have increased approximately tenfold, to $10 billion in fiscal 1995. His management expertise, insistence on continuous corporate planning, and energetic drive and development of Emerson into one of the world's leading manufacturers of electrical and electronic products and systems. The company has maintained a record of consistent financial performance, matched in length by no other American industrial manufacturing firm. In 1968, he became a director of Emerson, Mr. Knight also serves on the boards of Antecen-Busch, British Petroleum, International Business Machines and IBM Communications. Mr. Knight's involvement with the St. Louis region has been significant. He is a trustee of the Missouri Botanical Garden, chairman of the board of the BJC Health System and vice chairman of Barnes-Jewish Hospital. He is a member of Civic Progress, the civic booster group of the St. Louis Community Council/Boy Scouts of America, and the Business Council. He also is a trustee of the Olin Foundation in New York. He has a history of community service spanning more than 20 years. His accomplishments include raising funds to support the St. Louis Public Schools, the Mathews-Dickey Boys Club and the Annie Malone Children's Home, as well as substantial support for higher education. To help minority students attend college, Mr. Knight established the Emerson Electric Minority Engineering Scholarship in 1988. The program enables up to 15 recipients annually to begin their higher education with a specialized curriculum at St. Louis Community College; successful students may then transfer to the University of Missouri at Rolla. In 1991, Mr. Knight established the Emerson Electric/UNCG Scholarship, which provides full financial assistance to a St. Louis-area high school graduating student attending a United Negro College Fund college or university. His generosity continues to Williams College and the University of Washington, and also have been substantial. In 1980 and 1981, he served as chairman of a task force that recommended further development and improvement of the John M. Olin School of Business, raising more than $10 million for the school and working with the other Olin Foundation directors to approve a $15 million matching challenge grant to build the school's endowment. His support based on the success of the Olin Electric Classroom: an annual recognition of the top 100 Olin MBA graduates, who are designated Charles F. Knight Scholars, a full scholarship, an MBA at the Electrical, and Electric Co. Professor of Manufacturing Management. Mr. Knight received the Dean's Medal in 1980 for the vision that he brought to the Olin School since he founded the school with the involvement of the Olin School's National Council, and an advisory group that oversees the school's strategic planning. Mr. Knight also has been a major supporter of the academic and service mission of Washington University's School of Medicine. In 1992, he became chairman of the board of Barnes Hospital. In January 1996, Barnes and the Jewish Hospital of St. Louis merged to become Barnes-Jewish Hospital, a major teaching affiliate of the school and one of the world's best hospitals. Knight catalyzed the formation of the BJC Health System, which includes Barnes-Jewish, the Missouri Baptist Health System, Christ- tian Health System and St. Louis Children's Hospital. BJC is the largest academically affiliated health system in the United States. Mr. Knight is a graduate of Cornell University in Ithaca, New York where he earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering and a master's degree in business administration. He and his wife, Joanne, have four children and eight grandchildren.

CHIA-WEI WOO

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

W hile the name of Chia-Wei Woo is known to many, the Amanus Chia-Wei Woo is a highly respected theoretical physicist who has distinguished himself both in science and university administration, as a bridge-builder between countries, races, technologies and cultures. A naturalized American citizen who was born in Shanghai, Dr. Woo came to this country in 1955 from Hong Kong to attend Georgetown College in Kentucky, where he received a bachelor's degree in physics and mathematics. After receiving his master's in 1961 and doctorate in physics in 1966, both from Washington University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, he eventually rose to become departmental chair of a highly respected physics department, provost on a major University of California campus, and ultimately the first Chinese-American to be appointed president of a major American university. In 1988, completing a full circle, Woo left the United States and returned to Hong Kong, where he became founding president of the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology. The presidentship, which he holds today, allows him, as he said upon his appointment, "an opportunity to found a university of science and technology from ground zero with full support from the government and the community. I have always enjoyed building bridges: between education and society, between technology and industry, between China and the United States, between Asia and America; and increasingly, between Hong Kong and the San Francisco Bay Area. " Dr. Woo's challenge at the new university is to help shape the future of Hong Kong and the Pacific Basin, and, with his wide experience and many contacts, bridge the gap between East and West. His focus is to build the science, engineering, business and management programs of the institution, make them available to young Hong Kongers, and attract entrepreneurs, and value investors to Hong Kong into a vital role in technology cooperation between industrial nations and the rapidly developing world. As a member of the Preparatory Committee for the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, Dr. Woo is actively engaged in planning for July 1, 1997, when governance of Hong Kong will be transferred from Britain to China. Coming to the United States in the '50s, when parts of the country were still segregated and many Asian-Americans had not yet been assimilated into the cultural mainstream, Dr. Woo undoubtedly had to face some degree of racism. As a subject to his career has been the effort to foster, in a constructive manner, better understanding between cultures and races and to be forthcoming about unfair practices in education and the workplace. He was the recipient of the Eleanor Roosevelt Humanitarian Award from the United Nations Association of San Francisco. In his remarks at the awards ceremony, which coincided with International Day for the Elimination of Racism, Dr. Woo decried the existence of racism among the most intelligent and fit species on earth and called for a "proactive" approach that "promotes ethnic and cultural diversity as a major source of life, prosperity and enrichment for all Americans." Dr. Woo, who received his PhD at the University of California, San Diego, joined Northwestern University's faculty, starting as assistant professor in 1968 and becoming a professor of physics in 1974 and chair of the Department of Physics and Astronomy in 1974. He returned to the University of California-San Diego in 1979 as provost of Revelle College and professor of physics, before assuming the presidency of San Francisco State University in 1983 at the age of 45. His research interests include foundations of many body theory, phase transitions and statistical mechanics, non-temperatures, physics, and liquids crystals and polymers. He is author or co-author of some 120 papers in refereed journals and books, and he has directed 25 doctoral students and postdoctoral fellows. A fellow of the American Physical Society and an Alfred P. Sloan Research Fellow from 1971-74, Dr. Woo has received many honors and recognitions in the United States and China, including Washington University's Distinguished Alumnus Award, presented to him at the 1991 Founders Day banquet. He has been inducted to his Ph.D. thesis advisor, the late Eugene Feenberg, Ph.D., Wayman Crow Professor of Physics at Washington University, and to John W. Clark, Ph.D., professor of physics at Washington University, whom Dr. Woo refers to as a "caring brother during my graduate years in Ithaca." He is also is a graduate of Washington University's College of Arts and Sciences. They have four children.

ALMA MATER

Dear Alma Mater,
Thy name is sweet to me.
Our hearts are all for thee
Fair Washington.
Thy halls shall honored be
Throughout this great country
For all eternity, Our Washington.

Those days of youth which
All of us spent with thee
Form a dear history,
Fair Washington.
Could they renewed be,
We'd live our days with thee
For all eternity, Our Washington.
